

How I Made Partner: Q&A with Law.com

January 10, 2022

Member Camille Bryant (New Orleans) was featured in a “How I Made Partner” Q&A with Law.com as part of their “How I Made It” series of conversations with legal industry leaders about how they climbed the ladder of success and what they learned along the way. Camille joined McGlinchey as a summer associate in 2012 and was named Member (partner) in 2021.

“For me, becoming a member was a culmination of seven years with the firm, building relationships, working with members, in the New Orleans office and in other offices as well. Mentorship and sponsorship from McGlinchey members, like Mag Bickford, was also a big factor in achieving member status as well.”

“One of the most important business development tips I can offer is to always be genuine, even if it is on an awkward Zoom call. When you start a relationship from a place of authenticity, building relationships and staying in contact with people is easier.”

“Where you start your career is not necessarily where you end your career; my advice is to be open to new challenges, jump in to help whenever you can.”
