

McGlinchey Adds Financial Litigator Aleksandr Altshuler to New York Office

November 02, 2022

McGlinchey is pleased to announce that Aleksandr “Aleks” Altshuler has joined the firm’s Financial Services Litigation practice group as Of Counsel in the New York office.

Aleks has extensive experience in financial services litigation including creditors’ rights and debt collection, as well as commercial litigation and corporate law. He focuses on complex lender liability and workout litigation and has deep knowledge of the Fair Credit Reporting Act, Fair Debt Collection Practices Act, Telephone Consumer Protection Act, and New York state consumer protection laws.

“We are excited that Aleks is joining us at McGlinchey,” said Anthony Rollo, chair of the firm’s nationwide Financial Services Litigation practice group. “His litigation experience is a welcome addition to our growing practice group and we look forward to working with him to provide excellent counsel to our clients.”

Aleks is admitted to practice in New York state court as well as the U.S. District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts in New York.

“Attorneys in our New York office represent some of the largest financial institutions in the United States,” said Mikelle Bliss, Managing Member of the New York office. “Aleks has the skillset to provide excellent service to these clients.”

Aleks received his J.D. from Brooklyn Law School in 2011, where he served as president of the school’s Business Law Association. He received a bachelor’s degree in finance, magna cum laude, from Bernard Baruch College – CUNY in 2007.
