

McGlinchey Stafford Jackson Office – Finalist for “Best Places to Work in Mississippi” Award

February 15, 2006

The McGlinchey Stafford Jackson office was selected as a finalist in the Mississippi Business Journal’s “Best Places to Work in Mississippi” contest. This awards program is designed to recognize and honor the best places of employment in Mississippi, and to identify outstanding achievements within the company in revenue growth, good community citizenship, and integrity.

The primary strengths and potential in each participating company were determined by a comprehensive report based upon an online employee survey. Employees were asked about a variety of attributes which were grouped into seven categories: Common Purpose, Culture and Values, Communication and Cooperation, My Department / Team, My Job, Learning and Development, and Performance and Recognition.
