

McGlinchey Stafford Speakers at AFSA's Inaugural Law & Compliance Symposium

January 25, 2018

McGlinchey News Release

Kelly Lipinski (Cleveland), J-P Perrault (Baton Rouge), and Kristi Richard (Baton Rouge) will speak at the inaugural American Financial Services Association (AFSA) Law & Compliance Symposium, January 29–31 in San Diego, California. Kelly will serve as a panelist for a discussion titled “Conscious Uncoupling: The Bureau After Cordray,” which will provide a closer look at recent enforcement actions, current rulemaking efforts, compliance challenges, and what we can expect from the CFPB in 2018. J-P and Kristi will present to AFSA’s State Government Affairs Committee on January 30, an event restricted to AFSA members. Their presentation is titled “Hot Topics and Trends in Ancillary Products.”

AFSA’s first Law & Compliance Symposium is intended to meet compliance challenges by providing insights and guidance on critical federal and state compliance issues for the financial services industry. The meeting will focus on compliance for direct and indirect auto finance, traditional installment loans, payment cards, and mortgage loans. The conference targets company representatives who have compliance responsibilities, whether they are in management or legal, government, or compliance departments.
