

Prominent Litigator Thomas M. Hanson Joins McGlinchey Stafford's Dallas Commercial Litigation Practice Group

December 20, 2016

McGlinchey News Release

McGlinchey Stafford PLLC is pleased to announce Thomas M. Hanson has joined the firm's Dallas office and Commercial Litigation practice group as a Member.

Hanson is a well-known litigator who represents business clients in complex litigation and class actions locally and nationally. He has significant experience in matters involving consumer finance laws, mortgage fraud, real estate, land use and zoning, products liability, design defect, consumer protection, and business torts. Hanson's practice encompasses all aspects of civil litigation at the trial and appellate levels, including multidistrict litigation and alternative dispute resolution.

"We are excited to welcome Tom to McGlinchey Stafford," said Dwayne Danner, who heads the firm's Dallas office. "His impressive trial and appellate record, understanding of consumer financial services challenges, and dedication to client service constitute a significant boost both to our national platform and our Texas litigation practice."

"McGlinchey Stafford was a natural fit for me," said Hanson. "The talent, camaraderie, and professionalism of the attorneys and the staff stood out, as did the firm's national presence and reputation in commercial and consumer financial services litigation. I look forward to working with the Dallas team and the firm's litigators across the nation."

Hanson received his J.D., magna cum laude, from the University of California, Hastings College of the Law, and his B.A. from the University of Michigan. He serves as co-editor of the Consumer Financial Services Answer Book, published annually by the Practising Law Institute since 2011.

McGlinchey Stafford's Dallas office is home to legal veterans of the financial industry, as well as attorneys with significant experience in industries such as mortgage finance, banking and finance, insurance, and real estate. Attorneys in this office concentrate on consumer financial services, mortgage banking, real estate, and commercial matters in areas including bankruptcy, compliance, regulation, labor and employment, licensing, and commercial litigation.
