

Resolving Consumer Class and Mass Action Claims: Significant Issues and Considerations Explored

November 30, 2022

The COVID-19 pandemic has generated a significant surge in class action lawsuits, further shaping class action litigation in various industries. Alongside the trends and developments that the ongoing crisis has prompted, new class action risks have surfaced, increasing the potential for a single-plaintiff claim to turn into a consumer class action.

As risks arising from the pandemic are likely to remain, the necessity to keep abreast of all changes in this area of law is underscored. Companies are also compelled to re-examine their practices in resolving disputes to avoid class action claims. On Thursday, December 8, 2022, Joseph A. Apatov (Fort Lauderdale) will co-present a live webcast on the significant and latest issues surrounding consumer class actions as well as practical strategies to mitigate class action risks.

Some of the major topics that will be covered in this course are:

- Class Action Trends
- New Developments
- Notable Court Decisions and Rulings
- Emerging Class Action Risks
- Best Defense Strategies
