

Struggling Marijuana Industry Eyes Ohio for a Much-Needed Boost

August 22, 2023

Member Jim Sandy (Cleveland) was interviewed in a Bloomberg article, “Struggling Marijuana Industry Eyes Ohio for a Much-Needed Boost,” on the future of marijuana in Ohio and the likelihood of a ballot passing.

“There is a decent likelihood the initiative passes if it gets on the ballot this year,” predicted James Sandy, a lawyer in the Cleveland office of McGlinchey who works with the cannabis industry. Sandy said in an email exchange that Ohioans have become more comfortable with marijuana in the few years since medical pot was legalized, pointing to a recent poll that suggests almost 60% of voters would favor adult recreational use.
