

The Ethics of Appellate Advocacy in Civil Cases

November 16, 2023

Member Mike Rubin (Baton Rouge) will present “The Ethics of Appellate Advocacy in Civil Cases” during LSU Law’s Inaugural Appellate Practice Conference on Friday, November 17, 2023.

Mike is a veteran appellate lawyer who has handled hundreds of appeals in state and federal courts, including before the U.S. Fifth, Seventh, and D.C. Circuit Courts of Appeal, on various issues affecting the entire Gulf region. As a trial litigator, Mike has handled ground-breaking cases in the areas of finance and secured lending and major multimillion-dollar commercial transactions, as well as trials of national importance concerning federal voting rights, bankruptcy, environmental law, and constitutional issues. He served as an adjunct professor at the LSU, Southern, and Tulane law schools for 40 years, teaching courses in security devices and ethics.

Learn more.

Related people

Michael H. Rubin