

Assisted a state government retirement system regarding its investments

August 06, 2018

McGlinchey Stafford assisted a state government retirement system regarding its investments in a real estate and energy asset fund located in the Caymen Islands. The corporate team provided assistance negotiating the investment transaction and its underlying documents, including the ultimate change to an on-shore approach for the investment vehicle itself in order to build in certain client protections in light of its unique status as a state government agency that is a creature of statute.
