

Greg Scialabba

associate

boston

gscialabba@mcglinchey.com

T (857) 453-7152

Legal Secretary

Thelma Novack

tnovack@mcglinchey.com

(857) 453-7185

education

William & Mary Law School (J.D., 2018)

- William & Mary Business Law Review;
Federal Tax Clinic

University of Virginia (B.A., Philosophy, 2015)

- Internship with The Rutherford Institute

admissions

Massachusetts

U.S. District Court for the District of Massachusetts

I thrive on learning my client's business model inside and out so I can provide the best representation possible. I've always taken an interest in the history and evolution of the law, and my depth of knowledge comes through in the way I handle my matters. I enjoy thoughtfully building the strongest case and bringing an aggressive, resilient determination to every matter I handle. Clients appreciate my high level of communication, attention to detail, and collaborative, proactive work style.

Greg is a commercial litigator with a diverse practice. He handles matters ranging from complex commercial disputes and financial services litigation to business torts, government investigations, and regulatory proceedings in state and federal courts. He has experience managing allegations of breach of confidentiality and fiduciary duties, shareholder disputes, and other business issues. Greg is skilled in many facets of litigation, from pleading and motion practice to depositions and settlements through negotiations.

With a background spanning a wide range of litigation, Greg also has experience with employment litigation matters, including non-compete agreements, wage and hour claims, and discrimination and harassment allegations. He also has extensive insurance defense experience and has defended professional liability, premises liability, and construction liability cases. Greg has experience working on class action matters as well.

The more complex the issue, the more Greg enjoys digging in to devise a creative solution that works for the client. A curious nature as a lifelong learner suits him well in the law, where every day involves a different challenge and opportunity to think creatively.