I work with businesses in the automotive, insurance, and financial industries – and technology changes are affecting all of them. At the same time, regulators are playing catch up, figuring out how to regulate technologies that are going to hit the market in the next few years. My job is to keep up with technology and the law – so I can address both the legal and business goals of my clients.

Jean-Paul “J-P” Perrault advises clients throughout the United States on general business, corporate, and commercial issues as well as insurance regulation and compliance matters. He represents clients in all aspects of corporate structure, formation, and governance, including financing, joint ventures, asset and stock sales/acquisitions, and divestitures and mergers. He works closely with businesses in the automobile finance sector.

J-P represents insurance companies, producers, and lenders in the structuring of credit insurance policies and programs, related products, and services, as well as form, rate, and other
