I grew up in and around the courtroom with my mother, who worked as a legal secretary. I took an interest and attended as many court proceedings as I could, and I've been fascinated by the law ever since. Litigation offers the opportunity to think on your feet and solve new challenges every day, and I enjoy that aspect of my work.

Thomas Wisecarver supports employers, insurers, and third party administrators in workers' compensation claims. He manages the entire claim process lifecycle, from issues of compensability to the final settlement and file closure. His practice also includes transportation defense in matters involving trucking and automobile accident claims.

With experience ranging from research and analysis to deposing witnesses, filing and arguing motions before the court, and attending mediations, Thomas prides himself on communication and persuasion. He believes diligence is key to successful representation and takes care to handle matters efficiently.

Previously, Thomas worked as an Extern in the Civil Litigation Division of the Louisiana Attorney General's Office in New Orleans and Intern for Hon. Martin L.C. Feldman and the Hon. Jay C. Zainey of the U.S. District Court, Eastern District of Louisiana. To satiate his entrepreneurial curiosity, Thomas pursued a joint J.D./M.B.A. after completion of his undergraduate Business degree.
